How Today's Leaders Can Build
on the Legacy of the Pioneers
in the Profession

Address by:

Richard D. Seymour, Ed.D.

Associate Professor
Ball State University

Introduction:

Thomas P. Bell, DTE
Millersville University of Pennsylvania

This breakfast is a celebration of excellence and recognition of outstanding individuals who are destined to become the next generation of leaders in the profession.

Dr. Richard Seymour will review Dr. Donald Maley's long-time passion for the integration of content and passion for incorporating approved academic concepts with the interests of young students. Dr. Maley's ideas, presentations, and writings were outlined in his Maryland Plan program during the mid-1970s; today those same initiatives would likely be labeled as STEM efforts.
