

CALL for NOMINATION

2022 Silvius-Wolansky Award

Outstanding Scholarly Publication in Technology & Engineering Education

The Silvius-Wolansky Award for the Outstanding Scholarly Publication in Technology and Engineering Education is co-sponsored by the G. Harold Silvius Foundation and the Council on Technology and Engineering Teacher Education (CTETE). The award is presented annually by the CTETE to an author (or co-authors) whose scholarship has enhanced the Technology and Engineering Education profession.

Criteria for Eligibility

1. The manuscript being nominated should make a significant contribution to Technology and Engineering Education in one or more areas such as research, curriculum development, teaching methodology, etc.
2. The scholarly work must be an article, research report, chapter, monograph, or book published within the two calendar years preceding the nomination deadline. Edited works, for example those that involve one or more editors and several or more authors (such as CTETE Yearbooks and special theme issues of journals), shall not be eligible for this award.
3. The nominee(s) must have held membership in CTETE for at least the two years prior to the administration of the award, and must have a record of professional involvement in Technology and Engineering Education. In the case of works involving multiple authors, at least one of the authors must meet these criteria. For such jointly authored works, all authors shall be nominated as a group.
4. The individual(s) must be nominated by a person in Technology and Engineering Education. Self-nominations are also welcomed and encouraged.
5. An individual may receive the award no more than once in any five-year period.

Procedures for Nomination and Selection of the Award Recipient

1. The nominee shall e-mail the following materials by December 31, 2021 to:
Dr. Fred Figliano (ffigliano@troy.edu) at Troy University
 - a. One copy (MS Word or PDF format) of the publication being nominated (Note: If the publication is available online, provide the URL in lieu of sending a digital copy).
 - b. A short (1 paragraph) rationale that addresses the significance of the publication.
2. A sub-committee of the CTETE Research and Scholarship (R&S) Committee will make the selection. The Silvius-Wolansky Award is available on an annual basis, though will not be awarded should submissions not be deemed worthy of the award following review by the R&S Committee members.
3. Publications nominated for this award will be judged by the following criteria:
 - a. Originality of the contribution
 - b. Quality of the contribution
 - c. Content and clarity of purpose
 - d. Organization and presentation
 - e. Potential impact on the profession
4. The recipient of the award will be notified before the annual conference of the ITEEA, where the award will be presented. The recipient will be responsible for his or her own costs for attending the ITEEA Conference, including registration.
